Washington, DC - November 04, 2013

Brand USA, the tourism marketing body for the United States of America, has teamed up with ESPN to produce a suite of 51 new sport tourism and destination feature videos, as well as, a fun new game to help Brits find their perfect match when it comes to sports teams in the USA.

Housed on DiscoverAmerica.com, the 2-3 minute videos each focus on major sports teams, where tourists can catch a game, and various sporting activities that visitors can get involved in – from marathons to golf; watersports to winter sports – across all 50 USA states and the District of Columbia.

Built into an interactive map called the United States of Sports, the videos highlight pro sports teams, including baseball (MLB), American football (NFL) and basketball (NBA), and the best place to watch them – both in the stadiums and beyond. The features focus on more local, quirky events throughout the year that holidaymakers can enjoy such as a ground quidditch tournament in Illinois; Powwows in Oklahoma; and the Tour de Donut in Ohio – dubbed ‘the sweetest ride in Ohio’, participants in the cycling event make two doughnut stops during the 48km course. Also included are American events such as rodeos and NASCAR.

‘Get in the Game’, meanwhile, is a bespoke app designed to motivate users to choose an American team to follow by answering a series of questions about their sporting passions and personal interests. Whether it’s American football, baseball or basketball, ‘Get in the Game’ is sure to entice visitors to learn more.
